The page is in the archive.

Mosin Nagant

Wondering what the weapons in the Imperial Russian Army or the Workers 'and Peasants' Red Army looked like? Meet the Mosin Nagat rifle - the most popular weapon from this period.

Model 3D – Sketchfab

Mosin Nagant

Designed in late 1897, Mosin rifles were the primary long gun in both the Imperial Russian Army and the Workers' and Peasants' Red Army. They remained in the equipment of the Soviet army until the 1950s, when they were gradually replaced by the Kalashnikov automatic gun.